FRIDAY, AUGUST 21, 1857.

THE SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONVENTION .-Another of these annual humbugs has just fretted out the brief period of its existence, at Knoxville, Tenn. It assembled very solemnly, with represen tatives from all the States South of Mason & Dixon's line, save Kentucky and Missouri. Some degree of foolish conservatism pervading the people of those Commonwealths prevented their delegating any persons to personate their cause in this magnificent Southern Convention. Doubtless, the rabid Sarth, with unanimous voice, cries out, for shame! upon recreant Missouri and Kentucky. Still, however, these States live and prosper, although unwilling to join in the mad and treasonable courses of the fanatical South and North.

We have read the proceedings of the Convention with some degree of interest-such interest, in fact, as we would feel were the proceedings of an insane elub or a mad-dog hospital placed before us in July or August. Those proceedings amount to simply nothing, and the speeches, resolutions, and actions are all more consonant with the character of halfgrown children than of full-sized men.

The most important action taken by the Convention was that relative to the revival of the slave trade. A resolution was passed stating that--

In the opinion of this Convention, the 8th article of the treaty of Washington, ratified in November, 1842, ought to be annulled, under the first clause of the eleventh article of said treaty.

The moral effect of this will be the reopening of the slave trade, if that were possible. It is not, however, and can never be under existing or any imaginable political circumstances. No Congress can ever be assembled that will sanction a repeal of that section of the Constitution forever forbidding, after 1808, the importation of slaves. The entire North is sustained in its opposition to the traffic by a majority of the South, and there is practically no and unscrupulous politicians should succeed, in the course of time, in uniting the South in favor of the repeal, the North, which holds the balance of power in the House, would be able, even in the last breach, to prevent the consummation of the act.

But we deeply regret that any respectable body of Southerners should take the initiative in a movement of such an incendiary and aggressive character. The North, at the framing of the Constitution, opposed the abrogation of the slave trade because its capital was engaged in it. The South urged the abolition and triumphed. At this time it is the North whose interests are vitally concerned in the revival of the African slave trade. Its vessels and moneys and crews are engaged in the nefarious traffic, while the South has no interest whatever in that matter and can never be profited one whit by it.

We regard, therefore any agitation of the subject as peculiarly unjust to the South. It places one section of the country in an exceedingly false position. We do not believe that one out of every hundred citizens of the South would consent to the revival of the slave rade, and if the men who annually assemble in commercial conventions can find no other topic of discussion and action, they had better devote themselves entirely to their characteristic windy and vaporary debates.

LABLACHE .- A letter from Paris to the London News authoritatively contradicts the reported death of this renowned singer. He is not dead, according to the correspondent of the News, but, on the contrary, is at present at Kissengen, with his daughter, Madame Cringer, and in the enjoyment of improved health. This announcement, if true, is of deep importance to the entire musical world.

Tupper, who has a ridiculous passion for clutching at memorable occasions, has written a characteristic poem on the first telegraphic message be sent across the Atlantic. As may be easily the sent across the Atlantic. As may be easily conceived, the immense suggestiveness of the theme completely extinguishes the silly poetaster. The poem is the crowning failure of his literary career.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] ORIGIN OF THE ROSE.

One morn, on angel at the gate That or,ens into Heaven Stood with her folded wings that late Bad fanned the stars of Even; And, ere she plumed her shining wings For flight 'mid Heaven's bowers, She stooped to earth and wove a wreath Of sweet, dew-laden flowers.

There, up amid the eternal stars, She took her flight sublime, And entered through the ivory bars Into that sunny clime: Her sister angels flocked around To view her earthly gems; But found no flower like that which glows Within their diadems.

"And is it so?" a seraph asked, "That earth has net a bloom Like those that in our Eden bask With incense and perfume? If, then, 'tis so, my blood shall flow Upon this snowy leaf: What though its life be brief.'

The crimson fluid trickled down A pendant mossy stem The angel wafted it to earth From out her diadem. The stars shed dewy tears upon The queen of all the flowers, And now it blooms, the loveliest thing In earth's dim, shadowy bowers.

And there is one-a living type Of rose and angel too; And would'st thou know the secret? ah! Sweet maiden, it is you; Earth boasts no brighter, lovelier gem Than thou, my lady fair, With smile as sweet and voice as low EXHIBITION OF THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE. President Ainslie's smiling countenance as we enter ed last evening gave token of a great gathering. We witnessed the same with the most intense pleasure. We heard the sweet strains of Plato with undiminished satisfaction, and watched the coy adventures of scores of tenderly attached young folks with the calm stoical indifference that becomes our advanced bachelorhood.

The gas fixtures of Thos. Williams & Co. of course attract universal attention. Their chief feature is the arrangement they have perfected for cooking by gas. Housekeepers will fully appreciate these superior advantages, and we look for the speedy arrival of the time when gas will have taken the precedence of wood and coal in all of our domestic affairs.

Mr. Cornelius Sargent, an accomplished young chemist, has on exhibition a beautiful assortment of chemicals prepared by himself in his leisure hours. They give great evidence of genius and skill in his profession. We shall expect from Mr. Sargent great achievements in the chemical line.

COUNTERFEIT DOLLARS .- Spurious coin of this denomination is in circulation in New York. The pieces are made of tin, of the size of the new issue and galvanized, and are easily bent between the fingers. But these are not the only spurious coins. We have one before us of the date of 1852-an imitation-the appearance of which is called to decieve an even or close observer, but it has not "the ring of the true metal." This is the test. In view of these facts, our citizens should be on their guard against the little "yellow jackets," the color of which is merely superficial.

TRIAL OF AN ENGINE .- Yesterday afternoon the 'Big Relief," built for the company of that name by J. Lawson & Co., was tried. She was only half manned, but performed to the entire satisfaction of the warmest friends of the grand old machine. A one inch stream of one hundred and eighty feet was thrown.

In this connection we are requested to state that Pat. Hughes, an old "Red Rover," will stake $100 that the Relief machine can throw two hundred feet by giving the company due notice.

The annexed table shows the total export of teas from China to the United States from January 1st to June 30th. The decrease it will be seen is near fifteen million pounds, and during the same period the shipments to Great Critain fell off over twenty-nine million pounds. At last advices there was no vessel loading for this country, and it is thought the decrease for some time to come will be even greater than that shown by the following comparison:

Total exports from China to the 30th June will be: Decrease 6,829,500
Total export Backs 7,950,000
Last year 15,100,000—7,150,023 Total decrease.

FROM HAVANA.—Havana, Aug. 9.—The darkening clouds of distrust that had overhung our commercial world the whole of the previous days of last week were in great measure cleared away yesterday, and there is every appearance that in the present week business will be restored to its normal condition. RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river is falling again. Last evening there were 51/2 feet water in the canal.

Steamer Republic-Capt. T. J. Stewart.-The large steamer Republic is now at St. Louis, undergoing thorough repair and many improvements, under the superintendence of Capt. T. Jefferson Stewart, who has purchased the commanding interest in her. The Republic has been running but one season. She has immense capacity for carrying, and also great speed. Capt. Stewart is placing a full cabin on her, which is to be furnished in the richest style. He will run the Republic during the cotton season in the Low Mississippi trade, and afterwards between Louisville and New Orleans.

Capt. Stewart has been a pilot on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers for twenty years, and during that time no boat on which he was engaged has met with any serious accident. His services have always been sought by the finest boats in the trade. His professional skill and long experience is possessed by few, while in his private walks he enjoys the esteem and respect of our citizens, among whom he was reared and has ever resided.

The fine steamer Moses McLellan, Capt. Hildreth, is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day.

The J. H. Done has been withdrawn from the Carrollton trade, and the Emma Dean will again commence running in it. The Done is advertised for Wheeling.

The fine steamer Statesman will leave for Henderson this evening at the usual hour.

The Princess is advertised to leave for Nashville to-day, and the City of Cairo for St. Louis.

Three persons lost their lives by the sinking of the J. P. Tweed. One of them was a man named Telford, from Paducah.

The Cincinnati Gazette says that Messrs. Davis & Cook have sold the Arkansas river packet Umpire No. 3, Capt. Jenks Brown's boat, to Capt. John A. Kelly, of Madison, for $2,500 cash. Capt. Kelly will fit her up and place her as a regular packet beween Louisville and Frankfort.

CHINESE SUGAR CANE.-It is stated that over 100,000 acres of land in the United States have been planted with the Sorgho, or Chinese Sugar Cane. This is a wonderful result, when it is considered that only two or three years have elapsed since it was first introduced into the country. Mr. H. S. Olcott, who has given a great deal of attention to the subject, has in press a treatise upon it.

LOUISIANA CROPS.—The Concordia Intelligence: of the 7th inst. says:

The almost incessant rains, "for the rain it raineth every day," have injured the cotton on a vast number of plantations, and helped the crop in other places. One reason is that the showers were mest unequally distributed, falling in patches of only a few miles square, deliging one locality and leaving those around quite dry and doing well. Where too much rain has fallen the "greasy rot" prevails, and the squares drop off alarmingly. Wednesday of the present week was the fifteenth rainy day hereabouts. Thursday morning as our paper goes to press, the big clouds are tumbling in the distance, and we expect the sixteenth day of showers.

The Harrisonburg (Catahoula parish) Independent of the 5th inst. says:

The continued rains for the past two weeks have had a endency to augment the rust, and otherwise materially in ure the cotton crop in many localities, and there is ever y appearance of their continuance.

The Mount Lebanon (Bienville parish) Baptist of the 6th inst. savs:

During the last few days quite an abundance of rain has failen. The ground is mushy wet, and the small streams full and overflowing. It is evidently too wet for cotton, though it has not been at any other period during the season, and will do but little harm unless the wet continues. Corn is for the most part safe from drought and is generally fine

The Shreveport Southwestern of the 5th instant

It is feared that the rains of Saturday night, Sunday, Monday, and yesterday will prove injurious to the cottor crop. Our planters now require dry, clear weather.

The New York Courier has the following re marks on money matters:

The money market of the United States is every year becoming more independent of that of Great Britain, and we now look to the west, as much as to price of consols and the current quotations of American securities in London are matters of some interest to New York, but have no real effect upon the domestic money market. The amount of American securities negotiated in Europe within two or three years past has been quite limited, and we have years past has been quite limited, and we have strong grounds for asserting that at no former period were American securities better held or more generally distributed in Europe than now. Without being forced upon the foreign market, they have been of late years taken in moderate sums for permanent investments. We hear no more of "two million loans" among the transfer of the permanent investments. capitalists of western Europe for American ac-nt. State loans and railroad loans are now ta-

NEW YORK, July 28, 1857.

MESSRS. EDITORS: In a series of articles written by T. S. Bell, and published in your paper from June 4th to July 8th inst., my personal character has been so defamed before your readers as to call for a public vindication before the same community, which I have no doubt you will do me the justice to admit to your columns.

Mr. Bell's denunciation of those who have left the Bible Union is equaled in extravagance only by his Mr. Bell's denunciation of those who have left the Bible Union is equaled in extravagance only by his glorification of those who still adhere to it. He says "there are not to be found on this planet men of more exalted worth, of more unimpeachable integrity, of more unblamable fidelity, truth, honesty, and piety than the officers of the Bible Union." Of Wm. H. Wyckoff, in a previous communication, he says, "according to the testimony of all other men who know him, no purer man lives upon the earth." On the contrary, he says "O. B. Judd has been savage in his criticisms, but he is quite as ridiculous as he is savage." "A more contemptible specimen of bleeding vanity and of baffled malice than O. B. Judd's pamphlet never emanated from any quarter." Judd's pamphlet never emanated from any quarter."
"It is plain enough that Mr. Gorden has let himself "It is plain enough that Mr. Gorden has let himself out as a cat's paw for whatever nefartors work O. B. Judd may require at his hands." "This panderer to wickedness, malice, revenge, hatred, and all other Satanic graces has made himself the partner of O. B. Judd in his vices." "The chameleons J., alias Rev. G. Gorden, alias O. B. Judd shall have their aspirations for martyrdom fully gratified." I leave your intelligent readers to judge how well it becomes one who writes in the spirit and temper of Mr. Bell's articles to talk about the "Satanic graces" of other men, and what must be the weakness of of other men, and what must be the weakness of that cause which has to be defended by such per-sonal detraction; when the management of a society, and not the personal worth or wickedness of any man, is at issue.

Most of Mr. Bell's allegations are disposed of in my "Review." Such as are not I will now notice. The ferry story is doubtless founded on the fact that, once, when about to cross the East river, where the ferriage was two cents, I gave the collector a quar-ter, and he gave me a dime and four three-cent pieces. I cared little for the intrinsic value of a cent, but as the practice of making change in that way had grown into a system of petty extortion, I protested against it, returned the change, and took the value in tickets. During this occurrence one boat left, and I was detained just ten minutes waiting for another. It is wonderful that this simple circumstance, known only to myself and Wm. H.

circumstance, known only to myself and Wm. H. Wyckoff, who was accustomed to cross the ferry with me, should be published in Louisville to convict an humble citizen in New York of avarice.

Mr. Bell says O. B. Judd "came to New York a poor, friendless, helpless young man." I graduated in 1844, was pastor of a church in New Haven, Conn., till 1846, when I came to New York, to be editor of the New York Recorder, "poor" enough to be sure, but in no sense "helpless" or "friendless." He says the family into which I married "assisted in building a meeting house for him, and in making. in building a meeting-house for him, and in making him pastor of a congregation that assembled in that house." But no meeting-house was ever built for me or for the church of which I was pastor in New York. In 1847 I had a call from the church in Chelsea, Mass., where I was offered a salary of $1,000. At the same time the Union Church of New York in the church in the Union Church of New York was to become their reaster or a salary of At the same time the Union Church of New York invited me to become their pastor, on a salary of $1,000, offering to pay $500 promptly and the balance as soon as they were able. My mother-in-law, for the sake of keeping her daughter with her in New York, and of helping the feeble church, insisted on my accepting the latter call, which I did; and labored faithfully as pastor of that church for the space of four years. Mr. Bell says "he was regularly paid for his services." But to the best of my knowledge I never received from that church on account of salary over $125. The church has always been small and weak. On this account I never urged my claim. But some time since the church was ed my claim. But some time since the church was advised by its trustees to sell its property and dis-band. The church accordingly authorized the trustees to sell the meeting-house and lot. Not knowing to what purpose the proceeds might be applied, I felt not only authorized but bound to claim what was justly due to me. I accordingly sent in a bill for the full amount which they agreed to give me, at the same time offering to remit one half. The entire claim was repudiated. To save it from being out-lawed I was compelled to commence a suit, in which the church has pleaded the statute of limitation as a bar to the collection of all but the last month's salary, which was not six years previous to the suit, and for which they, therefore, offer to pay the suit, and for which they, therefore, offer to pay me. This action of the church is effected by the in fluence and agency of a lawyer, who is in the board of trustees. These are the simple facts in this case, most of which are known to Rev. W. W. Everts, D. D., of Louisville. Mr. Bell says "he resigned the pastorate to become a reviser." But when I resigned the pastorate I had not the most distant idea of becoming a reviser.

Mr. Bell says the committee of investigation was appointed on my motion, which statement has no appointed on my motion, which statement has no foundation in truth. I opposed the appointment of committee had b en appointed, as nominated by Dr Armitage, I did move that the filling of vacancies be referred to "the officers at the rooms," that the committee might appear to be what it was in reality, committee might appear to be what it was in readity, the creature of the officers.

Mr. Bell says, when the committee's report was made to the Union, "Judd declared that he had nothing to say against it." This, too, is all wrong; for I then stated that the gag-law enacted at the first session of that anniversary, limiting each speaker to ten minutes, precluded the opportunity of discussing the report at that time, but that I would do it ample justice in a pamphlet which I expected to publish. All who were then present must remember this statement.

count. State loans and railroad loans are now taken mainly, when offered, in the States where is sued. This independence of the foreign market, of foreign advices, and of violent fluctuations and crises abroad, is gradually becoming firmer, and if our merchants and importers are true to them elves and to the vast commercial interests of the country for a year or two longer, New York will give to (instead of receiving from) Lombard street a tone of its own.

See trace will show the statement.

Mr. Bell publishes a statement from Messrs. Lynd and Henderson, in which the latter gentlemen say that, "in the course of a thorough investigation of everything connected with that body from its origin to the date of our examination, all documents of that kind, confidential and otherwise, including the contracts with all the revisers, and everything of that kind, were placed before us." But how they arrived to that degree of omniscience to know that no other document, nor any other thing whatever, no other document, nor any other thing whatever, connected with the Bible Union, ever existed, except what was laid before them, would puzzle the wise men of Egypt to divine. The statement is, from its nature, incredible. Besides I know, and am prepared to prove, that the contract with Messrs. Boys and Thelwall, two Episcopal revisers of Engagement of the provents of the Union. land, with many other documents of the Union, were not laid before that committee.

The report of Mr. Wyckoff and myself had no reference to the peculiar form of Mr. Thelwall's contract, but related to the Baptist revisers, who wished some instruction as to the term "baptize." The terms of Mr. Thelwall's contract, requiring that term to be supplanted by some word in "common, secular use," were never known to the Board nor to me till the late investigation. A reference to the contracts, as set forth in my "Review," will show whether, as Mr. Wyckoff says, "all this is left to the revisers acting in the fear of God;" and "no distinction has ever been made or intended in our treatment of revisers between Bartist and Peder reatment of revisers between Baptist and Pedo-new York State has varied but little, and does not keep pace with the increasing business of the city and the interior. There is no surer indication than these tables of the growing prosperity of the Empire State and of the permanently profitable employment of capital within its borders.

Mr. Bell admits that the passage cited on the 41st page of my "Review," from the Investigating Committee's report, was written by Mr. Wyckoff, but says the committee that I "removed the quotation by inverted commas," and that I "removed the quotation marks published by the committee." But this is contrary to the fact. The copy of that Report which I used was from an edition published and distributed under the eye and hand of that committee, which I used was from an edition published and distributed under the eye and hand of that committee, and the city. In that copy, which I send to you, there are no quotation marks. See 6th page of the "Review," which also I send you.

It matters little, however, who wrote the report. The essential point relates to its accuracy and reliability, which I have fully treated in the "Review."

Mr. Bell, with his usual sagacity and modesty, asserts that "the fingers of O. B. Judd were manifest in the publication made ostensibly by Rev. G. Gorden, in the Journal of the 20th insc.," June.

Gorden, in the Journal of the 20th insc.," June. But his discovery is "baseless as the fabric of a vision." For I was totally ignorant of the whole matter until the 20th of July. Up to that time not one word had ever passed, directly or indirectly, between me and Mr. Gorden.

Finally, Messrs. Editors, I shall feel greatly obliged for the opportunity of vindicating myself in your columns from the gross personal assaults of Mr. Bell through the same medium. I do not know what your numerous, intelligent readers may think of such groundless charges and opprobrious epithets as abound in the articles of Mr. Bell, but I think they cannot fail to form a correct judgment as to the as abound in the articles of Mr. Bell, but I think they cannot fail to form a correct judgment as to the degree of confidence and respect to which such men are justly entitled. In all the discussions in relation to the Bible Union's mismanagement, I have refrained from strictures upon individual character as irrelevant. But if the characters of Messrs. Bell, Edmonds, and others should ever come to be the subjects of consideration. I shall certainly treat them. subjects of consideration, I shall certainly treat them as they deserve. Respectfully yours,
O. B. JUDD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. Gov. Walker, of Kansas, in the official dispatches recently received, says that on one point he has been grossly misrepresented, namely, as desiring that every man should vote who happened to be in the Territory on the day of the election for the ratification of the constitution. FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 21, 1857.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE .- A suit, claiming $\phi^25,000\ damages for an alleged breach of promise of m rriage, is causing considerable excitement in the f shionable circles of Boston. The parties to the suit are Moses Ingle, of New York, plaintiff, and Dr. George Hayward and wife, defendants. Mr. Ingle met Mrs. Hayward in Europe, as the youthful, beautiful, and wealthy widow of the late Amos Binney, where he says she promised to marry him. The defendants are now abroad. Rufus Choate and Peleg W. Chandler are retained for the defense. It is thought the case will be pressed to trial.

The steamer Time and Tide arrived at St. Louis on Wednesday, from Fort Snelling, with Major Sherman's light battery, Company E, artillery, consisting of eighty men, together with forty-eight horses.

The government steamer D. H. Morton went alongside the Time and Tide, and the whole establishment, men, women, horses, guns, cartridges, &c., transferred, and dispatched for Fort Leavenworth, from which it is expected they will start on their journey to Utah in a few days.

GRAIN IN RUSSIA .- A letter from Moscow, July 16, reports the almost entire loss of the wheat crops of this year in several of the most important wheat growing governments (districts) of Russia; an open winter and long drouth are assigned as the causes. It is also stated that the grain will be retained in the interior, and little or none exported.

IMPORTANT DECREE.-An order has been published by the Governor-General of Cuba, placing coke imported from foreign countries on the same footing as mineral coal, and consequently upon its importation it will enjoy all the exemptions granted to the latter article.

LATE FROM RIO DE JANEIRO .- The bark Roebuck, from Rio de Janeiro, arrived at New York on Tuesday, bringing dates to July 12th, eight days later than received by way of England.

The political news is unimportant.

The Roebuck brought no circulars, but private advices announce that a great advance had taken place in coffee, and also that flour was improving.

The following extract, from a letter by a large commercial house in New York, will explain more particularly the state of the market:

The news by the packet from Europe, which arrived the day before yesterday, has created quite an excitement, and about 56,000 bags have been sold since her arrival at an advance of about 160 7s. per arr., all for Europe.

The stock is now reduced to 60,000 bags; and a good cargo for the United States we think would not be got under 5, 300 63, 330 rs.

The flour market is improving; some 2,000 bags "Crenshaw & Raveneath" sold at $23 — 500, 4 mos.; 300 bbls. New Orleans at $21,4 mos.; 500 bbls. Raveneath, $21 — 500. The stock in first hands is now reduced to 32,000 bbls., and hold-greater flow.

THE FILLIBUSTER DESERTERS .- The arrival of the Tennessee at New York with a number of the deserters from Gen. Walker has been announced. They of course speak in derogatory terms of Gen. Walker. Their condition is deplorable-much worse than that of the men who remained true to Walker:

THE FILLIBUSTER DESERTERS IN THE PARK .- The most pitiful picture that the citizens of New York have looked upon since the arrival of the New York volunteers from Mexico was the congregation of returned Walker fillibusters in the Park yesterday forenoon. Two hundred and sixty of these deluded beings were placed by the Costa Rican Government Tennessee; about twenty of them West, and the remainder came to ard the Tenn stopped at Key West, and the remainder came to this city. Of the number who arrived here this morning, one hundred and eleven having no friends in the city to give them shelter and assistance, and not even means enough to procure a passage across one of the ferries, came to the Park in a body and quartered themselves upon the steps of the Hall of Records. There is no power in pan to correctly de-Records. There is no power in pair to correctly accribe their personal appearance—the artist's camera only is capable of doing justice to the sickly, sallow, ragged, and threadbare picture of despair. More than half of them were barefooted, many of them hatless, and not one that we saw had a complete suit of clothing, and even the scanty rags which covered their diseased and emaciated forms were repulsively foul and dirty. Almost every degree of age was presented, from the beardless youth of sixteen to the silver locks of sixty; and with their unshorn faces, sallow skips, sunker ever and their unshorn faces, sallow skins, sunken eyes and cheeks, and decrepit limbs, they presented a most pitiful picture of misfortune.

A large crowd of people gathered about them in front of the Hall, and their destitution having exy of one of the bystan proposed the placing of a hat upon the steps to re-ceive the contributions of those who felt disposed to assist them. This move was a success beyond expectation, and in about thirty minutes the shabby old beaver was the custodian of $67. It was then old beaver was the custodian of $67. It was then suggested that the men take up their positions upon the City Hall steps, which was immediately acted upon. Here a number of speeches were made by gentlemen present, appealing to the crowd for assistance to enable the unfortunates to get to their homes in this and neighboring States, which were pretty freely responded to by contributions to the hat. Mr. James W. Barker, while passing up the steps, was loudly called upon for a speech. He mounted the steps, but declined to make a speech, saying that he thought, if the needy appearance of these men did not excite the sympathy and open the purses of the people present, no eloquence that he could command would effect it.

The only speech he had to offer was a $20 gold

The only speech he had to offer was a $20 gold piece, and he hoped that others would follow in the same strain. This was received with a round of cheers, and this contribution, with others that followed it, increased the funds in the hat to $130, the distributions of the contribution of the same strain. tribution of which was taken charge of by a committee of gentlemen who volunteered for the duty. The fillibusters were then formed in line and march ed to a saloon in Fulton street, in charge of the money committee, and were there furnished with that which they have not had for some time—a wholesome and substantial dinner. The dinner cost $42, and was paid for out of the contributions.

Some gentlemen visited the Exchange during the afternoon to solicit aid from the bulls and bears, but were not as successful as they expected to be, only raising about $16.

Another meeting was held in front of the City Hall, between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, and the money then raised, added to that collected in the afmoney then raised, added to that collected in the afternoon, amounted to between $500 and $600, which was afterward equally distributed among the deserters. We understood that the amount given to each man was nearly $5, which will relieve their immediate necessities, but will not accomplish that which the most of them desire—the purchase of a passage to their homes, as the friends of a majority of them live in the Western and Southwestern "PLUG UGLY."-The origin of this term, which is now the rallying cry of a gang of rowdies who run with the Mount Vernon Hook and Ladder Company of Baltimore, is this, or, at any rate, a writer in the New York Herald says it is this:

in the New York Herald says it is this:

Hard by the headquarters of this fine company there dwelt a vender of cigars and tobacco, who was distinguished as being the ugliest man in the neighborhood. His establishment derived the principal part of its support from the Mount Vernon boys, and the invariable form of address, when a plug of his chewing tobacco was called for, was, "Give us a plug, Ugly."

PICTURE OF PARLIAMENT.—The following pleas ant picture of the two Houses of Parliament is from the London correspondence of the Christian Intellicer, dated July 21:

gencer, dated July 21:

At four o'clock last evening I went to visit the House of Parliament, with Mr. Kinnaird, member for Perth. The new buildings are a perfect wilderness of Gothic towers, groined ceilings, superb halls lined with marble statues of departed statesmen and warriors. Millions of money (enough to endow a school in every parish) have been levished on this gorgeous edifice. As we reached the door of the House of Commons the elegantly dressed doorkeeper called out, "The Speaker is in the chair!" I was shown to a seat in the small Speaker's gallery. The hall is superb in ornament, of oblong shape, with rows of green-cushioned benches on each side, and no desks in front of members. The Speaker wears a huge wig and gown. The members, most outlandishly, all wear their hats, except while speaking. The effect is exceedingly bad. I was also surprised at the youthful appearance of many of the House;

The effect is exceedingly bad. I was also surprised at the youthful appearance of many of the House; at least a score of them seemed like members of a senior class in college. A considerable loud conversation was carried on during the debates, and members were walking about continually.

The speaker of the evening most listened to was Mr. Gladstone of Oxford. He is an easy, nonchalant converser, with no elaborate harangue, but his style was very attractive. While he was speaking there was a constant cry of "hear, hear," which sounded like "yeh—yeh—yeh." After him followed the Chancellor of the Exchequer, a graceful, fluent statement-maker. Lord Palmerston pulled off his hat and spoke in a slow, careless tone for half an hour. He does not look so old as I expected. Sir James Graham is a huge, easy country gentleman, James Graham is a huge, easy country gentleman who sat like a man of leisure in a coffee-room. The who sat like a man or leisure in a concertom. And only outre and shabby member, in face, figure, and dress, is the Radical Roebuck, of Sheffield. He has a waspish petulence in his tone, and is the man for "inquiries" and "investigations." "inquiries" and "investigations." The old heroes, Sir Charles Napier and Gen. Williams of Kars, attracted much attention. As a body of men, the House of Commons is not so imposing in appearance as our American Senate. Lord John Russell sat smiling and silent. Disraeli looked sarcastic and sulten. He is the sharpest debater of them all. From the House of Commons we go by a splendid hall to the House of Lords. Their room is the most superb in the kingdom. It is a-blaze with crimson and gold. As we enter we see the noble Lord Shaftesbury on the red cushion by the door. Beside him, that handsome youthful face, under the thick golden hair, belongs to the Duke of Argyle, the rising hope of Scotch Presbyterians. Old Lord Aberdeen sits next, in a deep reverie. Across the floor, in front of the "woolsack," walks feebly an old man in green coat, buff vest, and check trowsers, with short white hair, and that unmistakeable turnup nose. As we look at the bent, decrepit veteran, it is hard to recognize in him the once gallant Harry Brougham, of the House of Commons. He sits down by Aberdeen—two antiquities together. We hear speeches from Lord Camden, Lord Granville, and the dashy Duke of Newcastle.

Those magnificent women in yonder gallery are and the dashy Duke of Newcastle.

and the dashy Duke of Newcastle.

Those magnificent women in yonder gallery are the wives and daughters of the Peers. I do not know enough of millinery to describe their "rig" for your lady readers; but it may be some gratification to American ladies to know that the lace and pearled buttons on the heads of the Duchesses and Countesses were fully as large as a saucer! Their faces were generally fair and brilliant in beauty.

I came away from the House of Lords (which contains many able and noble characters) in no wise converted to a belief in heredttary houses of legislation. Among the forty or fifty Lords present I could recognise Lord Brougham*, the only man who has attained a seat in that splendid chamber by any other than the accident or birth. I came home last night American to the core. night American to the core remarks precede a quotation of the Richmond, Va.,

We did not know, until recently, that the flour inspec-tors varied their standard every year according to the av-erage quality of the wheat crop. This variation, of course, renders the inspection statistics valueless, so far as they may have been considered an indication, by comparison, of the quality of respective crops. The standard this year has been heightened in consequence of the general excel-lence of the yield, so that the same quality of flour which was branded "Extra" last year will narrowly, if at all, es-cape the "Superfine" (a grade lower) impress this season.

FRIGHTFUL SUICIDE—A Young Woman throws herself before a Locomotive and is Killed.—A frightful suicide was committed between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning, on the Germantown railroad, above its junction with Broad street.

switch where the Norristown and Germantown roads diverge, states that he was on duty at 6 o'clock this morning, when he observed the girl come out of a lane near the plank-road bridge. She crossed the bridge (which passes over the railroad), and soon passed out of sight, walking slowly and looking about her as if troubled or expecting some one. He saw no more of her then, but about half-past seven, or perhaps later, he observed her coming down the Norristown branch in nearly the same manner as before.

She turned, on reaching the junction, and walked up the Norristown track until a turn in the railroad hid her from his sight. Presently he heard the train give the four whistles as a signal for him, and then the whistle for down breaks and the stopping of the train. He walked up then and saw the mangled remains of the girl on the track.

A young man who works in the vicinity states that he met the girl just before she threw herself before the engine. She was walking on the track, and asked him when a train would be along. He replied and went on the appears then that she replied and went on. It appears, then, that she turned back towards the city, heard the whistle, stepped off the track while the engine was some distance off, and then, as it approached, deliberately stepped on again, covered her face with her hands, and was knocked down and the train passed over her. The hody was almost torn to rices, and her her. The body was almost torn to pieces, and her clothing rent entirely off her person.

The train was stopped, and the pieces gathered together by the horrified hands on the train. They were then covered with a horse blank e and left by the side of the track till the arrival of the Coroner.

Several persons appear to have seen the girl this norning, but we cannot learn that any one saw reat marks of grief or insanity in her appearance. It must have been a deliberate self-murder The body, as our reporter saw it by the roadside, was that of a young woman, between 19 and 21, about medium size, rather dark complexion, and probably without color in her cheeks when living. Her face—which remained uninjured—is oval, the hair dark. Her eyes were closed, but we should think they were large, from the outline of the long dark lashes which rested calmly beneath them. The face would be interesting at any time, but looked doubly so under such circumstance

THE PRESS ON THE INDIAN MUTINY.—"In the presence of a mutiny," says the London Daily News, "which has affected fifty-seven regiments and corps, and with a disarmament of other twenty regiments; when we see the capital of India, the seat of the Suwhen we see the capital of India, the seat of the Supreme Government, relying for safety on the patrol of its handful of European inhabitants; when we find midway between Calcutta and Delhi the fierce Mahratta troops of young Scindiah, whose undying courage Lord Gough tested and proved only 12 years ago in the bloody fight of Maharajpore; when we reflect on how slight a hold one gallant Lawrence has of the Punjaub, and another heroic Lawrence of Oxed. and what a countries on recent situation. has of the Punjaub, and another heroic Lawrence of Oude, and what a temptation our present situation creates for the Rajah of Nepaul to attempt to recover his lost territory, to say nothing of the inflammable character of the hundred petty chiefs of Rajpootana, and of the consequences that may follow the death of Gholab Singh—in this situation no one can regard 20,000 English troops as a sufficient substitute for the force we have lost and the position in which the loss has placed us. As a first and Immediate contribution to our military force in that country it is no doubt a substantial one. But even if General Bernard succeeded, before the rain commenced, in capturing Delhi, and in annihilating the base and traitorous troops now in possession of the capital of the Moghul Empire, for many years to come an augmentation of the Queen's troops in India to that extent will be required."

A Young Man Who Married His Aunt Murdeled By His Uncle.—The sixth ward was greatly excited, yesterday afternoon, by a murder which took place in Cherry street, near Fourth. The murderer was an Englishman named George Freeth, and the victim was his nephew, a young man named William Lee Smith. It seems that both parties were Englishmen. Freeth came to this country about elven or twelve years since, and went into about eleven or twelve years since, and went into the employ of Messrs. George W. Simons & Brother, manufacturing gold and silversmiths. After workmanufacturing gold and silversmiths. After working for these gentlemen for about two years, he returned to England, leaving his wife and seven children in Philadelphia. On his voyage back to the United States, he became acquainted with a yeung Irish girl, whom he seduced, and afterward, in a drunken freak, married. This was about two years ago. While in England, Freeth persuaded young Smith, his nephew, to come out to this country with him. The nephew did so, and at the solicitation of the uncle both men were taken into the employ of the Messrs. Simons.

the Messrs. Simons.

Smith became an inmate in the house of Freeth. Smith became an inmate in the house of Freeth, and an intimacy arose between the former and his aunt. Smith, it is said, revealed to Mrs. Freeth the fact of the marriage of Freeth to the Irish girl, and Mrs. Freeth procured the arrest of her husband on the charge of bigamy. Freeth was thrown into prison, but was finally discharged under the two-term rule. After his discharge he went to Richmond, Va., where he went to work. Smith, meantime, continued to live with his aunt, Mrs. Freeth, and it was generally believed among those who were intimate with them that they were married. At all with them that they were married. At all events, a child was the result of the intimacy be-tween Smith and his aunt.

Smith continued to work for the Messrs, Simons until about three months ago, when he was discharged in consequence of his intemperate habits. During the time that Freeth was absent Smith told his emplovers that the former had carried to England with him gold and silver bullion and manufactured arti-cles worth £120, which he had stolen from them and sold in Birmingham. About the time Smith was discharged by his employers, Freeth returned from Richmond. About a week since he made applica-tion to Simons & Brother for work, when Mr. Geo. W. Simons repeated to him what Smith had told him. This incensed Freeth very much, and no doubt directly instigated the tragical act which took place vesterday afterwork.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon,
Smith was standing at the corner of Fourth and Smith was standing at the corner of Fourth and Cherry streets, in conversation with a man named Henry Harrison. Freeth happened to pass at the time in a Fourth street omnibus, and, seeing his nephew at the corner of the street, got out of the coach and accosted Smith, drawing a pistol. Smith ran into a drinking-house. As Smith ran Freeth fired three shots at him. Two of them passed through the breast, causing his death in a few minutes. Freeth immediately proclaimed that he had committed the deed, and expressed his willingness to be taken into custody.

FIFTY CENTS ON A DOLLAR.—A gentleman in Twelfth street, who is in the habit of sending out boots to be blacked, could not find his understandboots to be blacked, could not find his understandings one day last week. He sent his little son to the darkey's cellar, but he returned, saying he was shut up. The gentleman went himself in slippers, and after rapping sometime, he heard a noise inside. Presently a window opened and Cuffy's head poked through. "I want my boots," said the gentleman. "Sorry to 'form, massa, dat you can't hab um," replied Cuff, "fac' is, I is give out, busted, failed, broke, cleaned out, jammed up, split, I is." "But, Cuff," said the gentleman, "I can't help that, I must have my boots." Cuff, finding his customer rather riled up, poked one of the boots out of the window, and said, "Mass, I isn't telling no lie. I is clean bust, and no mistake. Ise taken an i'ventory of my fees, and, as I believe, on the honor of a ry of my fees, and no mistake. Ise taken an I'ventory of my fees, and, as I believe, on the honor of a gentleman, dat I shall be able to pay fifty cents on a dollar, I is willin' to gib you yours new. Dar it am. Take de boot." So saying, he slammed the window, leaving our friend to go home in his slippers, with his boot in his hand—his fifty cents on a dollar.

Mrs. Cumingham, otherwise Burdell.—This estimable lady, under the careful attention of Dr. Covel, physician of the city prison, is rapidly recovering from the combined effects of cucumbers and tartar emetic, but our reporter was informed yesterday afternoon by Miss Foster, warden of the female prison, that she is still very feeble, and seems to be greatly troubled in her mind. Miss Foster says that Mrs. Cunningham does not look as well as when she was there before, and that this last affair has given her a care-worn look. She repudiates the rumor that Dr. Catlin personated Burdell at the wedding. In regard to her children, she says that they will be provided for, no matter what may happen to her. She remains most of the time in her cell, occasionally taking her chair and sitting in the corridor.—N. Y. Tribune, 19th.

VALUE OF CLOVER HAY .- Horace Capron, Esq., of Alden, McHenry county, and well known to the readers of the Prairie Farmer, has been making accurate experiments to test the comparative value of timothy and clover hay. These experiments extend through a period of two years, were accompanied with accurate weighing and measuring, and the food was changed from timothy to clover, and vice versa, once month, and results were that clover hay uniformly ielded ten percent. more milk than timothy. It wil be observed that this was not a single experiment but a series of experiments extending for a long period, ample opportunities for which were afforded on his extensive dairy farm, from which he sold $6000 worth of milk in a single year. It is proper to that the clover is well cured.—Prairie Farme

Make a lather by boiling some soap and water together. Let it stand until it is sufficiently cool for use. Previously to putting the dress into it, throw in a handful of salt. Rinse the dress, without wringing it, and rinse it again in a fresh supply of clear cold water and salt. Then wring the dress in a cloth and hang it to dry immediately, spreading it out as soon as possible, so as to prevent any part it out as soon as possible, so as to prevent any part lying over another. STOMACH OR LIVER, i
Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn. Loss of Appetite. Despondency, Costivenes, s Bind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rhenmatic, and Nenrasjic Affections, it has in numerous instances, proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here ard there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be edged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly te the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

NOTICE.—Wheever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION. The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.

Reported for the Evening Bulletin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21

The steamers Moses Taylor and Splendid both lying in the Cunard dock, Jersey City, were burned this morning. The Moses Taylor was a new boat, belonging to the Delaware and Lackawana Railroad Company. Insured for $13,000. The Splendid belonged to G. J. Scott, and was insured for $10,000. Mr. Scott's son was on board the latter, and, it is feared, perished.
